RE: Lockheed Martin C-130 Hercules Hologram Products Program

Dear Mr. Cordero,

This letter is to confirm that Air Quality Aviation has executed a License Agreement with Derco Aerospace, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Lockheed Martin Corporation, to be an authorized repair facility for a defined list of C-130 Hercules components under what is commonly known as the Hologram Program.

Under the Hologram Products Program, licensees like Air Quality Aviation pass an initial audit to verify their quality systems and then utilize industry current technical data and processes to repair and/or overhaul C-130 components. The processes and safeguards that are part of the program serve as an assurance to customers that they are receiving the highest quality overhaul and repair services that meet Lockheed Martin, the airframe OEM of the C-130 aircraft, standards. Each part, after repair and overhaul, is marked with a hologram label as a sign of it meeting these standards.

Under the agreement executed by Air Quality Aviation, it may repair and/or overhaul C-130 Hercules components for customers world-wide.
